Located in the heart of downtown San Diego, the Seeds@City Urban Farm serves as a training ground for the Sustainable Urban Agriculture program at San Diego City College. We nurture urban farmers while increasing community access to nutritious food, supporting self-reliance, and building a thriving local economy.
Weekly Farm Stand
The farm stand runs throughout the semester and is managed by our CSA and farm stand direct marketing class. Everyone is welcome to come enjoy fresh produce, herbs, and flowers from Seeds@City!

Located in Curran Plaza, just up the stairs from the farm.
Open: Thursday, 9:00 a.m. - 11:15 a.m.

Join Our CSA
CSA shareholders are committed to helping support our farm by pre-paying for a share of our weekly harvest. Shareholders share the risk of a less than bountiful harvest, reap the benefits of an especially bountiful harvest, and help Seeds@City survive by insuring consistent income for purchasing supplies and maintaining the farm. Shares contain organic vegetables, fruit, herbs, and flowers grown on campus and picked that morning by City College students, staff, and faculty.

CSA pick up: every Thursday morning, 9:30 a.m. - 11:00 a.m.

Volunteer at the Farm
Wednesday - Thursday, 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Saturday 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.
• All levels (including beginners) are welcome.
• No minimum or maximum time frame.
• Eat a meal prior to joining us, and bring water and a snack.
• Wear closed-toe shoes, old clothing, a hat, and sunscreen.
• No need to RSVP. Upon arrival, check in with Jenny, our farm coordinator, to fill out volunteer paperwork.
