SD City's Morga takes Women's Athlete of Week honor

The Pacific Coast Athletic Conference has selected San Diego City College basketball player Evangeline Morga as Women's Athlete of the Week for the week that ended Sunday.

Morga, a 5-foot-3 sophomore guard out of Montgomery High School, helped spark the Knights to back-to-back PCAC cross-division victories over San Bernardino Valley 78-41 and College of the Desert 76-47.

Morga scored 18 points and passed off for 3 assists in the victory over the Wolverines. She came back two nights later with 12 points, 4 steals and 3 assists as City College defeated COD.

Honorable mention for the week was awarded to basketball players Randi Johnson of Mt. San Jacinto, Allie Israel and Roshell Lamug of Palomar, and Shatiano Daniels from Southwestern.

Johnson, the Eagles' 5-foot-10 sophomore guard from Elsinore High School, scored 10 points and hauled down 13 rebounds in a 105-22 rout of Imperial Valley. She played a key role as Mt. San Jac jumped in front 30-8 after one quarter and led 63-15 at halftime. She also scored 14 points and pulled down 9 rebounds in a 79-43 win over San Diego Mesa as the Eagles advanced to 16-2 on the season.

Israel, a 5-foot-9 sophomore guard out of Mission Hills High School, contributed 18 points and 6 rebounds in the Comets' 87-55 win over Grossmont. She finished the game 7-for-12 shooting, including 4-for-8 from behind the 3-point arc.

Two nights leader, Lamug came up as Palomar (14-2) defeated Southwestern 103-40 after leading 71-22 at the half. Lamug is a 5-foot-7 sophomore guard from Mission Hills.

Daniels, a 5-foot-11 sophomore guard/forward from Morse High School, helped lead Southwestern past College of the Desert 73-43 with 17 points and 7 rebounds.
