Accreditation Update

We are using a lot of good research about City College and the District for our self study that you will find interesting. It is available at the Institutional Research site which is listed under "District Links" on the district website: sdccd.edu. Some of the reports available are:

- ☞ The Accreditation Status Report, March 2009
- ☞ Basic Skills Reports
- ☞ Facts on File
- ☞ Online Course Satisfaction Survey
- ☞ Student Equity Reports

If you have questions about the research being done for Accreditation and for City College, contact Xi Zhang, our City College Researcher. If you have other questions about our self study, please contact one of us.

Peter White, Administrative Co-chair
Roberta Alexander, Faculty Co-chair

Athletic Information

Fitness Tip: Calcium Improves Bone Health

Studies have shown that weight bearing activities such as running increases bone mineral density in the legs and spine. Add adequate calcium to your regimen, however, and you're really going to bolster your bone health.

Provided are a few calcium facts:

1. Low fat dairy products are the best sources of calcium. Dark green vegetables such as collard greens, broccoli, spinach are good too, as are sardines with bones and tofu.
2. Getting your RDA for calcium should not be a problem if you get a calcium rich food at each meal.
3. Calcium in the form of supplements is inefficiently absorbed, but I suggest you ask your doctor or nutritionist about the alternative if your dietary intake is not adequate.
4. Sodium hampers calcium uptake so keep salt intake down if you are increasing your bone mineral density.
